The Convention at Stockton Organized,

Neff Secures the Chairmanship Without Any Opposition.

The Delegate-at-large Fight Between De Young and Barnes.

A Report That the Sixth District May Take Both Its Delegates from Los Angeles-Northam Leaves the Race

By Telegraph to The Times.

STOCKTON, May B.—[By the Associated Press.] Delegates to the State Republican Convention were up bright and early this morning trying to get matters in shape for the day's proceedings. About 9 o'clock a heavy rain nmenced and continued falling all morning. The delegates kept closely under cover and the hotel lobbies were thronged with politicians. Since last night the situation has commenced to resolve itself into some definite shape. Rea of San José had practically given up the fight for chairmanship of the convention, and it was generally conceded that Neff of Placer would secure the coveted position.

There was some talk this morning of selecting a compromise man, but Neff's selecting a compromise man, but Neft's supporters would not agree to this. The name of ex-Judge Waymire of San Francisco was suggested, but he declined to make the fight. Rea stated that he would withdraw in favor of N. P. Chipman, and there was quite a decided movement among Rea's supporters in favor of Chipman.

There is a hot fight in the Los Angeles delegation as to who shall be elected district delegate to the National Convention. Col. H. G. Otis of the Los Angulas Times, and Gen. E. P. Johnson are candidates from the southern part of the Sixth District, and R. E. Jack of San Luis Obispo, and John T. Porter of Monterey from the northern part. Col. Otis claims twenty-four votes out of forty-two and says the other side has conceded him twenty-one. R. E. Jack seems to be the favor-life from the northern bar out the northern the northern and one. R. E. Jack seems to be the favor ite from the northern end.

There was an attempt this morning to have a meeting of the Los Angeles delegation in order to secure ha moni-ous action, but the fight was too bitter and the delegates would not come together.

Daniel Cole of Sierra has withdrawn in favor of M. M. Estee from the contest for delegate-at-large and will concentrate his energies in attempting to be elected district delegate from the Second District. M. H. de Young, who is a candidate for delegate-at-large, is not here, but the men who are looking after his in-terests seem very confident of his suc-

At 12 o'clock the Los Angeles dele gation held a caucus, and Robert North-am's friends offered to withdraw him from the fight for delegate-at-large from the southern part of the State. This action was thought to insure the election of Spence. It was agreed that Northam should receive the nomination for Presidential elector.

Long before 2 o'clock, the hour set for the meeting of the convention, delegates began to assemble at Masonic Hall, where the convention is held. The delegates were seated in the body of the hall, their seats being marked by tasteful silk banners with the names of the counties inscribed thereon. The gallery was crowded with visitors, who seemed to take an active interest in the proceedings. Arrangements for press were particularly good, Chairmen Phelps, of the Citizens' Committee, hav-ing looked after every detail.

THE CONVENTION MEETS Precisely at 2 o'clock Irwin C. Stump, chairman of the State Central Commit ee, called the convention to order

He said:

Gentlemen of the convention: You are to be congratulated upon the large attendance and great enthusiasm of those assembled. They argue well for the future of the party and success of the ticket to be nominated at Minneapolis. They show the confidence you have in Republican principles and the Republican party. They are evidences that the eminently wise and conservative administration of national affairs for the past three years is appreciated, and the present policy of the party meets with your hearty indorsement. The principles of the protective tariff that protects one of vital importance to our rapidly developing industries, and the business of this convention at all stages should be so conducted that in the fall campaign those principles may not suffer by any act of ours, but may be sustained and indorsed by the people with more eathusiasm than ever before.

I congratulate you, gentlemen, that we enter the campaign with no apologies for our conduct of public affairs. The manly, patriotic and consistent administration of our foreign affairs and the guidance of that matchless statesman, James G. Blaine, will be a tower of strength in the contest. We congratulate ourselves that time has proven the wisdom of measures bearing the name of that eminent son of Ohlo, William McKinley, and during these years the careful and conscientious devotion to duty and of that eminent son of Ohio, William McKinley, and during these years the careful and conscientious devotion to duty and country of our honored Chief Magistrate, that great and good man, Benjamin Harrison, is a matter of honest pride to every citizen. It remains for us to do our duty well and fearlessly, to place measures above men and principle above personal ambition.

y. H. Murphy, Los Angeles, seconded the nomination. Murphy stated that the people of Southern California were in favor of raising the mining industry and in addition to furnishing fruit and raisins California shall furnish gold to the world the world.

DeGoliar of Alameda, also seconded Neff's nomination, and Mosebeck, San Francisco, stated that San Francisco was in favor of the nomination heart and soul.

F. W. Rea of San José then rose and moved that Neff be elected by acclamation. This was done with a rush and Neff was declared temporary chairman. Rea and Meyer of San Francisco con-ducted Neff to the stage. It is an honor to be called to preside over

After a debate lasting over an hour McConough of San Diego moved to strike out of the report of the Committee on Order of Business, etc., all reference to the State Central Committee, thus throwing the election of the com-mittee out of this convention. The vote was so close that a roll call was demanded which resulted in the motion being defeated by a vote of 324 to 178.

SIXTH DISTRICT CONTEST.

Reported Plan to Give Los Angeles Botl

STOCKTON, May 8.—[By the Associated Press.] There is a big fight over the election of delegates to the National convention in the Sixth District. The delegation will vote solidly for Spence for delegate-at-large, but on the district delegate question there is trouble There are four candidates for the two positions, Col. Otis and Gen. John-Los Angeles and Jack of San Luis Obispo and Porter of Monterey. The delegation held two meet ings this afternoon, but did not accom ings this afternoon, but did not accomplish anything and finally an adjournment was taken until 9 o'clock tomorrow. There is a well-defined scheme on foot among the Los Angeles delegation to ignore the northern part of the district and choose the two delegates from Los Angeles.

With the exception of the Third District, the other districts have decided not to elect delegates until after the re-

FOR DELEGATE-AT-LARGE. Felton Out of the Race-De Young Pitted Against Barnes. STOCKTON. May 3.—[By the Associated Press.] So bitter and prolonged was the contest tonight over the intro duction of the Niles resolution, prohib iting federal officers from being members of the State Central that nominations for delmittee, egates-at-large were completely lost sight of and forgotten. During interval between the after noon and evening sessions De Young's men were hard at work and rumors alarming to the other side flew about concerning their success. Felton has dropped out of the contest and De Young's opponent is Gen. W. H. L. Barnes. The latter says he did not want the posision when he came to the convention, but he considers that he has not been treated fairly by Kelly and Crimmins and he declares that he is in the fight to stay. The San Diego delegation is said to have gone over to De Young, as have the San Bernardino, Fresno, Santa have the San Bernardino, Fresno, Santa Barbara, Ventura, and half of the Los Angeles men. If this rumor is correct De Young's chances are greatly improved, and it looks like a winning fight for him. There will probably be no contest over the other delegates-at-large—Estee, Spence and Rideout.

San Francisco, May 3.—The Post's Stockton special says: "Now that the question of chairman is settled, the topic of paramount interest under dis-opic of paramount interest under disussion is the selection of delegates-atcussion is the selection of delegates-at-large. From present indications it looks as if De Young, Estee and Spence would be elected. There promises to be quite a lively battle over the fourth delegate. Prominent candidates are Gen. W. H. L. Barnes, George Knight and Senator Felton. The latter has hardly a winning chance, as there is an undercurrent of feeling against sending a Senator or Representative to the Min neapolis convention. Gen. Barnes and his son are on the ground, making a vigorous fight. It is said the Alliance intends to stand behind Barnes but intends to stand behind Barnes, bu Burns will not commit himself in the matter. "In order to place himself right before the convention Gen. Barnes has announced that he will second his own nomination and assure members of the convention that he is an independent candidate and under no political obligations to either Keily and Crimmins or Burns and Wilson."

Outline of Their Work as Far as Completed.
STOCKTON, May 3.—[By the Associated Press.] The Committee on Platform and Resolutions was in session several hours this afternoon and finally adopted a lengthy platform, of which the following is a synopsis:
President Harrison's administration is indorsed, as is his action in the Chile, Italy and Bering Sea controversies. The plan of reciprocity is indorsed, also Gov. Markham's administration. The revision of the naturalization and immigration laws is demanded, so that undesirable people who are sent or come voluntarily here can be kept out. Improvement in the enforcement of the eight-hour labor law is demanded and the election of law is demanded and the election of lawies distance. Senators by complex yet.

law is demanded and the election of United States Senators by popular vote is indorsed. The resolutions declare against the free coinage of silver and want the coinage restricted to the product of American mines. The Government control and speedy construction of the Nicaraguan Canal is favored.

After the convention adjourned to night the Committee on Platformwas in session until after 12 o'clock. At that time the platform had not been agreed upon by the committee, and the members decided to deliberate further over it. The stumbling block in their path

The San Francisco Squabble. STOCKTON, May 3.—There was a hot fight in the Committee on Credentials this afternoon over the contested seat: in the Thirty-fourth and Thirty-sixth San Francisco District. The mittee was in session from 3 o'clock until 6. Finally the country delegates got tired of the wrangling by San Francisco contingent, and divided the delegates between the two sides. Kelly and Crimmins were allowed to keep their eight delegates from the Thirty-fourth District, and Burns and Wilson were given the five delegates from the Thirty-fourth of the five delegates from the f given the five delegates from the Thirty-sixth. This leaves San Francisco fifty-seven for Burns and Wilson and fifty-three for Kelly and Crimmins.

THE METHODISTS.

The General Conference Again Troubled Over the Question of Seats. OMAHA (Neb.,) May 8.—[By the Associated Press.] The entire forenoon in the Methodist General Conference was consumed in an attempt to straighten out the tangle over the seating of lay delegates separate from the ministers, and the end is not yet reached. It was discovered this morning that some ministers were seated in the sec-tion set apart for lay members, and it took a whole hour to settle the matter. It became necessary to postpone the quadrennial address until tomorrow, pending a settlement of the burning question about seats.

At the afternoon session the report of the Committee on Constitution, appointed four years ago, was read. A number of changes were recommended, among them that ministerial and lay delegates vote together in the general those intended to make changes in the organic law of the church. The report will be taken up on Tuesday next.

Committees were appointed on temperance and the Epworth League. The discussion of these two subjects indicates that the conference is deeply in-terested in both and radical action is anticipated. Many delegates declare the temperance cause one of the most important matters to be considered and as the Epworth League becomes one of the vital arms of the church it should be thingly recognized.

The Fox and Illinois Rivers Out of Their

OTTAWA (Ill.,) May 3.—[By the Associated Press.] At noon today the Fox and Illinois Rivers began rising rapidly, nearly two feet of water between 12:30 and 2 o'clock. From that hour till .6 o'clock the rise was from four to six inches an hour, and the rivers reached a stage higher than ever before in the history of the city. The entire Illinois Valley, from the junction of the Kan-akee and Illinois to Lasalle is inundated. Many thousand dollars' worth of property are destroyed.

In Ottawa several manufacturing establishments were obliged to shut down, and the electric railway, some down, and the electric fallway, some two miles in length, is under water from two to seven feet. People on the bottom lands were obliged to vacate their farms, and the water at 9 o'clock in many instances was within but a few feet of the houses. A rise of one foot will necessitate the vacating of many homes. A Swede named Johnson was drowned last evening while helping remove some stock from an islanding the Illinois. The river is over a miles wide here, and at Utica it is nearly up to the city. No serious damage is anticipated to any of the cities as the water has not risen over an inch since 8 o'clock. Injured by a Railway Collision.

THE SHERIFF AND THE SUPERVISORS A Fall of 1.76 Inches Up to 5 O'clock Yesterday Afternoon. An Interesting Scene at the Courthouse

A rather interesting scene occurred in the Board of Supervisors' room yes-terday afternoon. Some severe remarks had been made relative to the scape of two prisoners from the County Jail by a morning contemporary, which attempted to throw the burden of the blame upon the Supervisors, and Sheriff Gibson was summoned by the board for the purpose of finding out whether or on the was trying to shoulder the onus of the affair from himself to the Supervisors. In response to a question by Supervisor Davis he denied emphatically that he had authorized the publication of the matter in question but claimed that he had notified the board of the necessity for wife screens over all the windows of the jail. He was, however, shown the printed specifications of the work to be printed specimentons of the work to be done on the jail, which contained the clause "except those of such rooms as are used for domestic purposes," and was informed that as he never made any demand until after the attempted escape of the Crocker boys, the board had not had time to accede to his request, in any event. All this he admitted, but when requested to correct the statement made, said that he would have to think over the matter before acting months argesticated.

The sudden, not to say unceremoniou departure of Dave Douglass, the cornetist, from the city Monday afternoon, without notifying his old employer, "Papa" Schurtz, has been explained. Some days ago Douglass accepted an engagement with Starke, the violinist, to go to Colorado Springs for a couple of months. The proposition got to be talked about, when Douglass, who wished to keep his place with Schurz until he got ready to leave, denied that he was in the combination and until he got ready to leave, denied that he was in the combination, and continued blowing his horn at the Palace up to Sunday night. The following day, when he got his check, he quietly took the train for the East, being escorted to the depot by Berklein and one or two other of his friends. All of the musicians in the city say Douglass will return when his engagement is concluded.

What do you suppose Mr. Clinker said when I told him that his necktie was up behind?"

"I haven't the least idea."
"He asked me to stand in front
him and fix it."

The Chicago grand jury declined to indict the scalpers who were charged with violating the law by carrying on their business in that city. They had a hearing before the grand jury, but at its conclusion the jury decided that the its conclusion the jury decidence was not sufficient, and "no evidence submit-bills" resulted. The evidence submitbills" resulted. The evidence submitted was an array of tickets purchased from a long list of brokers. The tickets were those of the Illinois Central. Alton, Santa Fé, Monon, Rock Island and Wabash issues. The general passenger agents of these roads were called and asked whether the brokers in question were authorized as their agents to sell the tickets. All answered in the negative. The charges were made under an act of 1885 entitled "An act to prevent frauds upon travelers and owners of rands upon travelers and owners of any railroad, steamboat or other con-veyances for the transportation of pas-sengers." By the provisions of the act no one can sell tickets over any line of transportation without a written con-tract with the officers of the line. The penalty for a violation of the act is a fine of $500 or one year in the peni-tentiary or both.

THE RAIN.

The rain which started in early Monday evening continued during the entire night and up to 8 o'clock yesterday morning when there was a let-up, and an hour or two later the clouds cleared off. From midnight until 6 o'clock vesterday morning the rain came down torrents, over an inch of water falling in that time. The amount officially re-ported for the twenty-four hours ending at 5 o'clock yesterday afternoon is 1.76 inches, making the total thus far this month 1.79 inches. The total for the season is 11.75 inches.

The rain again began falling about 6 o'clock last evening and came in a steady downpour until midnight, when it eased up a little. The indications were, however, that the rain would continue until morning and amount to fully as much as the night before. The rain has been quite general and copious, but reports from various quarters are to the effect that no damage has as yet been done

The average rainfall for May for Los Angeles for the past fourteen years has been .4 of an inch, the greatest amount of rain falling in the month being in 1883, when it was 2.02 inches. At present it looks as though the present month will beat the record.

Strawberries. [Rural New Yorker.]

If farmers only realized how easy it is to grow as large a yield of strawberries to the acre as of potatoes, by planting the right kinds in rows twenty rods the right kinds in rows twenty gods long so that they could be cultivated with the horse, I think very many would venture to pay $2 for 200 plants by mail and try some of the best-paying varieties. The great cause of failure is, in planting all pistillate varieties, which make a fine bed of plants with plenty of bloom, but not a perfect berry. Set one row of perfect-flowering kinds on either or both sides of row of plstillates, and, properly tended, 200 plants set in this way in the spring will bear 1000 quarts of splendid fruit the following season. I had one variety in matted rows that yielded fully at the rate of 800 bushels per acre the past season. G. J. K.

A leaf crushed and placed on the earth under the roses in the window kept the lice off more effectually than anything I have tried.

"There is only one thing that I would really like in this matter," said Mr. McCall, reflectively. "I do wish that whenever I go off on a business trip that the papers would not say that! have gone to Canada. You see, in my business I have to be away a great deal," and Mr. McCall became confidential. "After the 6th of this month I will be away a great deal, and during the greater part of June I will be away."

"What have you got to say in regard to the action of the Citisen's Defense Association taken recently!"

"I have nothing to say in particular. It is the same old matter that is being turned over again, and which I have talked about a dozen times. I can only say that I never saw the bill until it had been printed and laid upon my desk in Sacramento. I never saw Mr. Ottinger in regard to it and I never talked money about it to any one. I really don't know the exact charge that has been made against me, but I suppose it is the same old matter that has been brought up heretofore."

"Have you taken any steps in the mat-ter" "Have you taken any steps in the matter?"

"Not as yet. I do not know what has been done, for I have hardly had time to look at the papers. I will tell you the only mistake that I have made in this whole matter. It was in running for office. I made that mistake once, but I will never do it again. It was the biggest mistake of my life. It was only a short time ago that a gentleman, and a warm friend of mine, came to me and asked me if I was going to run again. He explained to me that he had a friend who was anxious to make a canvass for the Assembly, and that his friend would not do it unless I was out. I told him to go and tell his friend that I was out, and that he could not go too fast for me. But before he went I advised him that if he wanted to do his friend a good turn he would keep him out of the fight. The worst turn that my friends ever did me was to elect me to office."

"And you want to make no other state-ment in regard to the action of the Citizens' Defense Association?" ment in regard to the action of the Citizens' Defense Association?"
"None. I cannot help feeling that this agitation is being stirred up by my business rivals in the hope that they will bring me in bad odor. In fact, Ottinger as good as told me so, and I do not believe that Mr. Ottinger will say or make amdavit that I ever approached him in any way with of ters to suppress the bill, or talked money to him about the bill in any way."

TRIED TO KILL THE DETECTIVE.

Bosqui's Exciting Experience with a Drunken Rowdy. That the life of a detective, like that of the proverbial policeman in the Pirates of Penzance, is not always a happy one, was realized last night by Detective Bosqui.

About 11 o'clock that officer was attracted to Lenert's saloon on Alameda street by the sounds of an alteration, and as he entered he saw a burly German standing inside the with a pistol in his hand, which he was threatening Lenert, and another man who was in front of him. Taking in the situation at a glance, Bosqui made a rush for the fellow, who, however, broke away and ran outside. As he rushed across the street closely followed by the officer, he turned and snapped the trigger of his weapon twice, point blank in the face of his pursuer. Fortunately all but two of the chambers were empty, and Bosqui, after a desperate struggle, managed to disarm the fellow and place him under arrest. Upon being taken to the station, where he stated that his name was Alfred A. Stetman, he was locked up in the city prison ou the charge of having disturbed the peace.

The ragged edges of the bark were infested with bugs of all kinds, and in some instances fungi had made such ravages that the decayed parts could be removed with

In March, 1891, I thoroughly cleaned away all the decayed wood, stripped off all the loose bark, and then covered the wounds with the pine tar. Insects and worms came out by hundreds.

The effect of the treatment is a new growth closing around the bare spaces, no bark peeling away, and the trees are healthy and bear well. I gave another coating of the tar in February of this year, and found a few limbs that had escaped my observation last year; the difference between them and those that had been treated was remarkable; no new growth of wood, the bark all rough new growth of wood, the bark all rough and curled up and insects under all. J. R. Baird, horticultural commissioner, visited the orchard February 22, and was very much impressed with the ben-eits of the treatment.

I would advise two applications yearly, one in the fall to protect the inunder trees from the rain, and one in the spring to keep out the insects.

The Woman Horribly Cut Up and Impaled on a Broomstick.

errest of the Murderer-He Confesses and Says the Sight of Blood Made Him Crazy for Further Sy Telegraph to The Times.

CHICAGO, May 8.—[By the Associated Press.] A murder that rivals for cruelty and horror the fates of the numerous victims in the London Wnitechapel district was committed between 5 and 6 o'clock this evening in the home of Michael Welsh, at No. 344 Washburne avenue. The victim was Mrs. Bridget Elizabeth Walsh. Walsh left home for work as usual this morning, leaving his wife following her customary occupations. Walsh home a few minutes after 6 o'clock, found the front door locked, and gained entrance to the house through the kitchen. A fire was burning in the stove, and the evening meal was partly prepared. The appearance of the room attracted Walsh's attention as being peculiar, and he started in search of his wife. He searched through the house, and not finding her, began to fear that some harm had befallen her.

fear that some harm had befallen her. Noticing a strong and disagreeable odor from the bedroom he returned and made a more minute examination. The room was partially darkened, as the window curtains were lowered. He raised them and a pile of rags met his gaze. The first piece of cloth he lifted was stained with blood. He then threw the pile aside and there on the bloodstained carpet was the nude body of his wife. Sixty-five gashes, varying in length from half an inch to a foot told the story of death that came only after the story of death that came only after a violent struggle, as was shown by the disarrangement of the furniture and splattering of blood. Not satisfied with killing his victim, the slayer so horkilling his victim, the slayer so hor-ribly disfigured the corpse that Walsh could hardly realize that he was gazing on the dead body of his own wife. From the crown of the woman's head to her feet were cuts in every conceivable direction. The wounds were most numerous on the breast and were most numerous on the breast and lower limbs, where the flesh was ripped and hacked in places until the skin hung in shreds. Along the upper part of the right leg was a gash over a foot in length. Along either side of this wound was a row of smaller gashes made with uniform length and evenly arranged, as if to give a horribly artistic finish to the work. Over each eye was a deep gash. There was another beneath the right eye, another along the left cheek, and still another along the left cheek, and still another on the neck under the chin. In the left breast, immediately over the heart, was a pair of long-bladed shears that had been driven into the flesh. Immediately under them was a small, round hole resembling a bullet wound, but there was no trace of powder

A broom that had evidently been car-ried from the kitchen into the bedroom had been broken and the handle was thrust through the entire length of the woman's trunk from the lower portion to the throat. Pleces of the vita organs were torn off and carried alon by the blunt end of the wood, and th mouth was filled with a mass of bloo and flesh. The broom handle had been thrust up with terrible force, for the woman's body was terribly torn and portions of the organs were left lying on the floor. All the wounds were evi-dently inflicted by shears, for the edges of the cuts were rough and notched. At the lower part of the trunk was this especially manifest, where the flesh was cut and torn.

For a moment the sight of his wife's

For a moment the signt of his whies body so unnerved Walsh that he was unable to act. Recovering himself he notified the police. Upon arriving the police examined the room where the body was found, and on the narrow bed were three pillows covered with blood. On the wall also were great splotches and the bed clothing was strained among which were also Mrs.

stained, among which were also Mrs.
Walsh's clothing saturated with blood.
The police made a hasty survey of the situation and started on a search for the prepetrator of t efforts were rewarded, for within four hours the self-confessed murderer was arrested in the person of Thomas Walsh of No. 143 Washburn avenue, the dead woman's nephew. When the prisoner was taken to the station he acknowledged that he was the guilty party, and said he and Mrs. Walsh were drinking said he and Mrs. Waiss were utriking together and he made an improper proposal to her, whereupon she slapped his face. He drew a kulfe and stabbed her. The sight of blood suddenly drove him insane, with the result that he mangled and tore the poor woman as related above.

For the last two years, there have been repeated rumors that the Mormons were making arrangements for an extensive colonization in Mexico, but they have always been met with a pretty strong contradiction from the church authorities. It seems, however, there must have been some truth in them after all, for a report comes now that arrangements have been completed, and all terms settled for a Mormon colony at Santa Rosalia, which will be the center of other colonies to be located hereafter.

THE newly-appointed Minister to France, Thomas Jefferson Coolidge, is a grandson of Thomas Jefferson, the father of Democracy, and his appoint ment is, therefore, in the nature of an appeal to Democratic sentiment. It is true he is a Republican, but the state ment is made that he was once a Demo crat. He abandoned the Democratic party and joined the Republican organization on account of the tariff issue He is a large iron manufacturer in Massachusetts, a member of Boston's "400," has a cottage at Manchester by-the-Sea and resembles one of Naoleon's marshal's. But he will, probably, make a good minister.

The Secret Out at Last, E. L. Bertrand, the Washington correspondent of the San Francisco Chronicle, in a letter published in last Sun day's issue of that paper, discusses the recent cross-purpose work by which San Pedro was euchered out of a proper appropriation for harbor improvement He throws a good deal of light on the proposition and seems to shift the blame of the detracting circular, of which so much complaint was made, from San Diego to some neighbors nearer by. Mr. Bertrand says:

Diego to some neighbors nearer by.

Mr. Bertrand says:

The secret lies in the unlooked-for opposition that comes from Californians themselves, who are actuated either by jealonsy or financial considerations. The case of San Pedro harbor is in point. It is not true that San Diego circulars were used to destroy San Pedro's chances for securing the assistance it ought to have, but it is true that some of the people who are interested in Santa Monica and Redondo, near-by rivals of San Pedro and Wilmington, threw cold water on the scheme from the start, and were largely instrumental in having the appropriation cut down by the House committee to a paitry $20,000. And the men who accomplished this are influential persons, at least one of whom participates in the councils of the Nation. Los Angeles has only herself to blame for receiving a blow to her commercial interests. Of course an open fight was made on San Pedro, but certain influences were brought to bear in a quiet way with excellent results for those who do not care to see San Pedro, but certain influences were brought to bear in a quiet way with excellent results for those who do not care to see San Pedro and a haven for deep-sea vessels, and this totally defeated the appropriation for an outer harbor and cut down the amount for the inner works to an entirely inadequate sum. As a contrast to this, notice the manner in which Humboldt's future was assured, and how San Diego, which asked for nothing and is today a perfect harbor in itself, was given an appropriation more than twice that of San Pedro. No fight was made on these places. On the other hand, one single word of doubt was expressed as to Oakland's right to ask for harbor improvement, and not a moment was lost in cutting down the appropriation.

There are many other similar cases, but these few facts are sufficient to serve as a text upon which a profitable sermon can be preached, the lesson of which is that if the people of California awant anything from the Government they must act in concert.

is that the cutting down of one California appropriation does not mean that another California appropriation will be raised The difference will go to the rapacious East. Even Mr. Holman is not above picking up these little crumbs for his own thoosier district.

This ought to be an impressive lesso to those who are continually allowing their "local patriotism" and self-inter est to get the better of their fealty to the State and the common good. The dog-in-the-manger policy has done more injury to California interests than all of the hostility that has ever been raised to us on the other side of the mountains It would seem to be the proper thing for Los Angeles county to doff its sombrero to San Diego and beg a thousand pardons for the false accusations that have been made. As to the "friends" at home who helped to knife the interests of Los Angeles county, their turn will probably come some day to feel the treacherous steel and then they will wish they hadn't commenced that sort of thing.

The Need of Forest Protection

The San Bernardino Times-Index has timely and sensible article on the subject of preserving the pine forests in the mountains from the devastation of fire. Undoubtedly one of the mos shameful bits of vandalism in this State is the destruction of forest timber in this way. The latter part of every summer brings a succession of mountain fires which not only destroy thousands of cords of valuable wood, but which denude the mountains of all foliage and invite the whole train of evils which fall upon a country thus made barren The Times-Index despairs of securing protection for the forests from State authorities and suggests the following plan:

First, the United States, through its President, ought to set aside Government lands, not already sold as a National Park. Secondly, strips of land a rod in width running north and south, and not over one half mile apart, ought to be plowed annually in the dry season so that when fires do start they will be held in check without spreading over the entire forest region. Thirdly, the State ought to authorize by law the Supervisors of this county to employ one or two men to ride over the forest and arrest campers and cattle men who carelessly set out fires, and to do anything arelessly set out fires, and to do anythin ecessary to check the spread of them whe once in progress Fourthly, there ought to be a standing reward offered for the detection and arrest of careless persons setting fire.

The area of San Bernardino's timbered region is about ten miles in width by forty in length. It is stated that several million feet of lumber are cut annually and forest fires are destroying the young timber which springs where the older timber has been cut off If fires could be kept from raging it would be but a few years before a thick growth of young trees would cover the ountains, serving to hold the water from rains and melting snows, and causing it to sink into the soil instead of running off in floods as it has done for some years past to great damage to the Francisco convention would have been land adjacent to the Santa Ana River and Lytle Creek. If the snow waters were held back the streams would not dry up in summer, but would flow bank full throughout the dry season, fur nishing sufficient water to irrigate every foot of land in the valley abundantly. Not a winter passes but the streams roar with floods, which, if dis tributed throughout the summer, would furnish more water than the farmer could possibly use.

same principle holds with refer ence to the timbered mountains of Lor Angeles county. We are burning our opportunity away at both ends when we allow this timber to be destroyed. do not know that it would be feasible to plow furrows through our mountains, as our exchange proposes, but we could establish some police surveillance on traveled mountain regions, and see that eople who wilfully or carelessly set these timber fires are punished. At any rate the best possible methods of fores protection are advisable.

The Old Missions of California It has often been asserted that Amer icans as a class have not that reverence for the past that is so characteristic o the nations of the old world, and this is often attributed to the fact that we have no antiquities; no ruins about which linger grand and heroic memories; no historic race-beginnings, as have other lands and older peoples, in whose realms the race was cradled.

The earlier past of this new world is argely enveloped in darkness, but occasionally evidences are discovered which prove conclusively that a long line of pre-historic peoples must have lived and vanished before the coming of the Europeans to these shores. Th mighty ruins discovered in Mexico and in Central America are the hiero glyphics of dead nations, old almost. perhaps, as those who were cradled in the orient "in the beginning." But possibly some future Schliemann may yet uncover these buried monuments to unwritten history and help us to read and study the lives of the vanished races that have gone before us.

Meanwhile we have in the venerable old missions historic piles about which sufficient romance and historic story cling to make them worthy of preservation. They are monuments of energy; of courage; of religious fervor, and of an advancing civilization that should not be left to perish. It is lamentable that the hungry tooth of decay has been permitted to gnaw at them so long undisturbed and unhindered. That the hide bound roofs have been allowed to fall, and arch and wall to crumble into ruin

We can scarce understand today the amount of labor, the patient determination; the unwearying pose that was necessary for the accomplished. Here was land occupied by the peaceful untaught children of the sun. They were not inured to toil. Game and fish and wild fruits furnished them food. They had few if any implements of labor Their own patient backs took the place of beasts of burden. The mighty mountain paths were climbed for stone and for timber. In the sun were the brown bricks baked, and toil-ing thousands of the native sons the soil worked to rear these century-old structures, which stand today as the monuments, not alone of ritual and creed; they represent more than this. They represent the birth in the mind of the simple-hearted savage of an idea-the idea of a God who loved the race and who, through sacrifice, had opened the door to larger life and nobler worship, The simple, pastoral life about these old missions gradually took on more and more of the life of civilization. chards and vineyards were planted, and the fresh, virgin soil was turned and made ready for the seed-time and the later harvests. Cattle, and horses, and sheep began to feed in great numbers on the lush grasses about the old missions; great aqueducts were built and life-giving streams were brought down from the mountain fastnesses; the mel ody of the mission bells broke the sweet, fragrant silence of the blossom ing hills and plains. The childre were gathered together to be taught and here, where these missions stand the early lessons of civilization were learned. Reading, writing, music and the silver-tongued Spanish were taught and slowly budded the latent intelligence of these simple natives.

It is this mental dawn that these old missions commemorate. They are eloquent of the new life that then was planted on these shores. They are the monuments of energy, of patience, of self-sacrifice and devotion, and as should be dear to every heart within the limits of this great commonwealth. It is not "gush" to say that we revere these venerable piles and would preserve them as landmarks reared by the brave pioneers of a new era of progress upon these shores. They represent an energy as forceful, a courage as unfalterng, a devotion as true as that mani fested by the Puritan fathers upon the bleak and unhospitable shores of England, and here now at their shrines do the forces of these two distinct civilizations meet and class hands in one common love of country And we owe it to the past, to the brave heroic conquering force of these old padres that these missions be preserved Their bells, calling to worship, may be hushed, and the paths once trodden by thousands of the brown children o early days may become grass-grown and reap the benefits arising from that mighty onslaught upon superstition, and the victory, commemorated by the hoary walls of these crumbling mis-They tell the story of the past as nothing else can tell it today, and let us look to their restoration and preser vation. GRAND OPERAHOUSE. "And she was tall and stately" may be said with entire truth of picturesque and pleasing Agnes Hunt-ington, who was heard at the Grand last night—her first appearance here—in Plan quette's opera Paul Jones. But if one should say that the opera wa

But if one should say that the opera was an evidence of ability in its composer he might certainly be termed "away off" with entire truth. To be sure it contains entire truth. To be sure it contains two or three pleasing airs and a couple of choruses in the second act that are quite passable, but beyond that it depends upon the personal-ality and phenominal voice of Agnes Huntington and the clever comedy work of a postion of her company to make it go, but it does go after the first act, with great dash and spirit, for it is constructed on picturesque lines, and is handled in a most picturesque lines, and is handled in a most picturesque and charming way.

Miss Huntington has that greatest of all charms in a stage star, personal magnet-picturesque lines, and is handled in a most picturesque and charming way.

Miss Huntington has that greatest of all charms in a stage star, personal magnetism, to a superlative degree; added to that, was the fact that she appeared before her audience last night suffering with a badly sprained ankle, which was plainly in evidence, and leaning upon a cane. But while the swollen extremity of the shapely limb appealed to the sympathies no doubt, the star's commanding figure: soulful eyes and voice full of music, especially in the middle register, was quite sufficient to win for her the applause that was poured out without stint. This was especially the case at the finish of the second act when Miss Huntington was twice called before the curtain, and the demand for her appearance was so pronounced and heart-warming that she spoke half a dozen words of thanks across the footlights that were full of tact and graciousness.

The company supporting is generally excellent—much better than a portion of the Sai Prancisco press had given us reason to expect. Homie Weldom in the rôle of "Yvonne" developed a sweet true voice that was full of charm, and as she has a pretty face and figure and acted with chic, was quite up to the demands of the part. Eme Chapy as "Chopinette" was very bright and clever and did a bit of graceful dancing in the last act with "Don Trocadero." Clinton Elder, the "Rufino" of the cast, sang the solo at the beginning of the first act beautifully, and was noisily encored. The comedy work of Hallen Mostyn as "Bonillabaise" the smuggler, was fully equal to his make-up as a tough old sea doc, Which is saying that it was excellent. Be had a fine second in Albert James as "Petit Pierre"—generally called "the insect" for short. Mr. James has a voice of much sweetness and is a clever-comedian. Eric Thorne as "Don Tracadero" does some excellent dancing and plays the part with much eccentricity, but scarcely in good taste. The weak points in an otherwise good cast are the way the roles of "Bicoquet" and "Kestral played, nearly passable.

Thescherus was very good, the dressings tasteful and the piece finely staged. The leading of the orchestra by Herman Perlet was superb, our own local players under his baton handling the music of the score with good effect. The house was a big one for a rainy night, but not so large as the merit of the performance demanded. The same opera will be given tonight.

By Telegraph to The Times.

WASHINGTON, May 8.—|By the Associated Press.] Representative Whiting of Michigan has prepared and will submit to the House the report of the majority of the Ways and Means Committee recommending the passage of a bill to place on the free list silver, lead ores when the silver exceeds the lead ore in value. The report says: The McKinley law imposed a duty of 1% cents a pound on lead in silver ores "with the result of increasing injury to American smelters and all interests connected therewith." The use of silver lead ores for smelting dry silver ores mined in the United States is an imperative necessity and they are not only required as raw United States is an imperative necessity and they are not only required as raw material of smelting, but as an essential tool of the industry. The American smelter must secure this tool and as the domestic supply does not meet the demand, heavy importations of Mexican ores are made. Now, however, new conditions confront the smelting interests of the country, and threaten, unless the relief proposed is granted quickly, to transfer across the Mexican border a large proportion of the smelting industry, to the great injury of American labor and railroads and other kindred pursuits. The result of the McKinley act has been to benefit foreign interests and injure our people, and unless quickly remedied the injurious results will be past cure.

In conclusion, the report says:

In conclusion, the report says: While the bill will not cure the evils the present law created, if promptly adopted it will modify the injurious effect upon our home industries. The Foreign Affairs Committee has suggested that this concession will probably be of mutual advantage in securing reciprocity with Mexico.

Mr. Sherman looked upon the intro duction of Chinese laborers through Canada as an insult to the United States. Such incidents created excitement which some day would be a cause of great difficulty. By Telegraph to The Times.

CHICAGO, May 3.—[By the Associated Press.] Sixty of Dr. Cyrus Teed's California converts arrived at the "College of Life" this morning. The delegation consisted of old and young men and women and people of all trades and professions. Among the number was Mrs. Knight, a niece of Charles Crocker the

The Doctor was asked about Mrs. Knight, and he said: "Oh, she embraced Koreshanity like thousands of others. The world is going to be converted to my doctrine. No, I would rather you would not see Mrs. Knight. We have just arrived, as you see. All the California people are tired and do not care to be interviewed. About 150 more are on the Pacific Coast who will arrive in Chicago in a few weeks—I cannot tell just when."

"Have you closed the deal for the Washington Heights property?"

"Yes, all the papers are signed. We will move into the place some time this week. I know of no opposition from the people on Washington Heights. We intend to go there and make our home." The Doctor was asked about Mrs.

It was reported that the people of Washington Heights, the suburb of Chicago where Teed proposes to locate, would tar and feather him.

This has awakened vigorous opposition from the land-grant railroads and they are protesting against the proposed legislation as unjust and unreasonable. Animated Rat Traps Animated Rat Traps.

An essential part of the home in ratinfested districts of Brazil is the giboia, a small species of the boa about twelve feet long. This sn2ke is perfectly harmless, sluggish in its movements, and passes the day at the foot of the staircase of the house scarcely noticing anything that is passing about it. It is kept for the purpose of destroying the rats, for which it hunts after nightfall, crawling here and there and even pencrawling here and there and even penetrating the space above the ceiling and beneath the flooring. As serpents seldom eat the rats are caught and crushed for the pleasure of killing. The gibola becomes attached to its home, and the property of the proper finds its way back when taken away, and is duly praised with other fixtures when the house is being sold or let.

As to who is doing the largest dry goods business. It is no longer a question as to what business in the dry goods line is receiving the most favorable comment from the general public. The rapid strides made in increasing the business of this house has never been excelled by any business in this city. One price, good treatment, courteous salespeople. If you buy anything in this house and you are dissatisfied with your purchase, bring it back in a good, merchantable condition and get your money; there is no possible chance for dissatisfaction on this score. We lay special stress upon the fact that our salespeople have been engaged with the one special object in view-they must be courteous and polite; they must show goods freely and willingly; if they are only looking more pains must be taken, if possible, than if they wanted to buy. Why? Usually when parties are just looking around or in search of a sample, they are neglected elsewhere; even if a sale is not made we have at least secured the good will and a good word from the party. People just looking not only look in one place, but in many. Where the most cordial treatment is given, where the most attention is paid is where the customers buy when they get ready; it is not so much a question of price as plenty of attention; soft soap makes more lather than a stone—it is more purifying, and the more attention paid the general public the better they like it. The trade of this house is growing at a wonderful rate.

Winding Up the Affairs of the Exhibit.

The Final Meeting of the Committee Held Yesterday.

Reports of the Treasurer and Secretary Submitted

A Net Profit of $700 Realized and the Manner in Which it Was Distributed -Causes of the Falling Off in Receipts.

The committee who have the matter in charge met yesterday to wind up the affairs of the citrus fair of 1892. There were present Messrs. E. F. C. Klokke, treasurer; C. D. Willard, secretary, and Mr. Scott, vice-chairman of the Executive Committee. The reports are to be incorporated in the report of the State Board of Agriculture.

THE TREASURER'S REPORT. E. F. C. Klokke, treasurer, presented the following report of receipts and disbursements;

Received from the general manager between the dates of March 2 and April 4, 1892, $9016.03; expended on orders signed by chairman of Executive Committee and secretary, $8315.97; balance of profit, $700.06.

In accordance with the resolutions adopted by the association at its organization December 22, 1891, this balance has been divided equally between the Chamber of Commerce and the various counties taken a section of the contract o of Commerce and the various counties taking part in the exhibit to wit: Chamber of Commerce, $350.03; San Bernardino county, 30 per cent., $105; Los Angeles county, 25 per cent., $87.50; San Diego county, -18 per cent., $53; Orange county, 10 per cent., $35.01; Ventura county, 10 per cent., $35.01; Ventura county, 7 per cent., $24.51; total, $700.66. I have no further funds remaining in my hands as treasurer of the Citrus Fair Association.

Mr. Willard, the secretary, submitted the following report of the secretary and general manager of the California

At this meeting officers were elected as follows: President, Eugene Germain; vice-president, E. W. Holmes; secretary, C. D. Willard, and the following were chosen as an Executive Committee: Germain, Holmes, Klokke, Ford and Smith. C. D. Willard was elected general manager of the fair and Frank Wigsias superinteadent,

At the first meeting of the Executive Committee the resignation of Eugene Germain was read and accepted with regret and John Scott was elected to fill the vacant place.

The committee organized with E. W. Hoimes, chairman; John Scott, vice-chairman; E. Fr-C. Klokke, treasurer. Its meetings were weekly until the fair opened, when they were daily. The last meeting of the committee took place Makch 29, 1892. at which time E. F. C. Klokke, John Scott and the secretary were appointed a special committee to wind up the affars of the association.

The citrus fair of 1892 opened March 2 at 7:30 p.m., and continued through March 10. It was open seven full days, one extra evening and one Sunday aftermoon, making a total of seven and three-fourths days.

The finances of the fair were as follows: Receipts — Space, privileges, etc., $387.35 rebates, $241.15; sale of admission tickets, $5719.03; salvage, $168.50; premium momey, $2300; total, $90.016.03.

Expenditures — Advertising. $243.30; carpenters, $111; cartage? $181.36; clerrical and skilled labor, $279.50; door.keepers and ticket sellers, $99; drygoods, $607.59; hardware, iron, etc., $214.33; ight, $425.65; locality expenses, $117.50; imber, $318.30; miscellaneous, $177.30; music and performers, $490.50; postage and telegrams, $73.90; posters and posting, $90.95; premiums, $2910; printing, $203.80; rent, $760; salaries, $300; statienery, $45.18; watchman, $35; total, $8315.97; balance of profit, $700.00.

The balance above was divided, $350.03 being turned over to the Chamber of Commerce and $350.03 being paid to the various counties entering for competition according to a schedule adopted by the Excentive Committee at its meeting on March 29, 1892. This schedule was as follows:

San Bernardino, 30 per cent.: Los Angeies, 25 per cent.: San Diego, 18 per cent.: Orange, 10 per cent.: Santa Barbara, 10 per cent.: Ventura, 7 per cent.

The profits accruing from the fair were considerably less than those of either 1890 or 1891. In each of these years a profit of $2000 was realized. The cause of this lay primarily in the failing off of the gate recepts, which were $5719.03 as against 7720 in 1891. It is not possible to account for the difference of $2000 except on the general proposition that the public is losing interest in citrus fairs. A larger sum was spent on newspaper advertising this year than last and a variety of devices were resorted to to bring up the attendance, such as parading the streets with display wagons and bands and the use of may not the decoration, the cost of which $2000. In spite of this exertion, however, the gate receipts

From the point of view of the orange-grower the fair was evidently quite as successful as any that had preceded it. The growers were put to as little expense as possible, and the returns in premiums were large, and were carefully adjusted. The judges were selected long before hand, and the list was sent to every member of the association for his approval. The judges worked under a carefully prepared scale for judging citrus fruit, and the decisions rendered were subjected to much lesss criticism than usually occurs.

All of the counties of Southern California, viz., San Bernardino, Los Angeles, San Diego, Ventura, Orange and Santa Barbara, were represented by exhibits, and the central section of the State was represented in an exhibit from Porterville, Tulare county. The following localities entered as competitors: Ontario, Pomona, Santa Paula, Rightand Tustin Gargien Grove. The growers were put to as little exitors: Ontario, Pomona, Santa Paula, Rialto, Highland, Tustin, Garden Grove, San Diego, Fullerton, Redlands, Colton, Riverside, National City, Duarte, Porterville and Santa Barbarbara. In addition to these transportation dition to these, twenty-nine other local-ities were represented by individual exhibitors. In all there were 655 en-tries, a list twice as great as that of any preceding fair. The judges de-born.

clared the quality of the fruit to be much superior to that of last year's fair and some improvement over that displayed two years ago. These facts go to show that the orange crop of 1892 in Southern California was by no means the failure that it was represented to be.

A notable fact about the display of 1892 was the attention devoted to lemons. In the premium list as enumerated, eight classes for lemons, with a total of $470 in premiums. There were seventy entries in these classes.

The attendance at the fair we estimated at 35,000 people, of whom a very large percentage were Eastern people.

Can the State Stand It [San Francisco Bulletin.]

Unless all signs fail Senator Leland Stanford is a candidate for a nomination to the Presidency at the hands of the Republican party. It appears at least to be certain that he wants the delegation from this State to vote for him at Minneapolis. It was generally believed some time ago that he was to be a candidate before the Farmers' Alliance party. It is indispunable that he spreads sails to catch all of that breeze that was passing. His celebrated 2 per cent, loan bill fitted very nicely into that programme. But a very active opposition was at once manifested to him in the ranks of the new political organization, for reasons very active opposition was at once manifested to him in the ranks of the new political organization, for reasons what are obvious enough. Soon thereafter there followed a declaration from the Senator that his intention was to act with the Republican party.

The surmise of those who dig below the surface was that his original plan of campaign was to secure the Alliance nomination, and, with that on hand, force the Republicans to take him up. The presentation of a pure Republican aspect, if made seriously, will however be sure to force inquiry into the kind of partisant the Senator really has been. He has got almost all that he has out of the Republican party. It was that organization which planned the transcontinental railway. But he was not, as often asserted, the War Governor of California. It was his predecessor, Governor Downey, who put nearly all the troops demanded from California in the field.

In the subsequent history of the State Senator Stanford is credited with have put nearly all the troops demanded from California in the field.

In the subsequent history of the State Senator Stanford is credited with having defeated the Republican party more frequently than he helped it. It was he who put Farley (Dem.) in the Senate and Irwin (Dem.) in the Gubernatorial chair. It was by his aid that Stoneman (Dem.) was elected Governor over Estee. Most of this political work, it is true, was done by the railroad. But during all that time he was the unquestioned master of that powerful corporation. It will be found impossible to dissociate him from it. There is reason to believe that the same power was quietly used in the last Presidential election in favor of Clevelend. In the Senate Mr. Stanford is rarely in In the Senate Mr. Stanford is rarely in accord with his party. He voted for Lamar for a seat on the Supreme bench, and by his commanding influence with Senators Stewart and Riddleberger se-Senators Stewart and Riddleberger secured the number of Senators necessary for his confirmation. He runs with the free coinage men and the land-loan men. We are not quite sure that in the last bill submitted by him he is not putting out a hand to the gold-bugs. He has managed to maintain a blank record on the tariff and Chinese questions. He is never in his seat when these great issues are up. So far as the Chinese are concerned he is and has been their largest employer in this State.

There does not appear to be much of a Republican record in all this. Such as it is it is not at all strengthened by the fact that Mr. Stanford is one of the heaviest debtors of the United States. heaviest debtors of the United States. He and his associates to date may be said to owe $70,000,000 to the Government. The unique position which they occupy is that they do not interd to pay. It will be seen without much difficulty what an enthusiastic campaign could be fought on these facts. The Republican fervor that would grow out of such a record can be more easily imagined than described. But for all that, to all appearances, the work to secure the delegation from this State to the national convention for the senior Senthe delegation from this State to the national convention for the senior Senator goes along silently and perhaps not ineffectively. At least there is no other hypothesis upon which recent political movements in the city and State can be explained.

No one can have failed to notice the almost sudden hush that has taken place in local Republican bickering.

There is a figure, evidently, in the background with hands outstretched gently The holy calm which now prevails, taken in connection with many of those who have all at once become prominent in local politics, is very suggestive. The truths of world-wide importance The truths of world-wide importance, according to the standpoint from which they are viewed, to which Senator Stanford has from time to time given utterance, are now being republished by an admiring press. The Senator utterance, are now being republished by an admiring press. The Senator himself has given out that he is in favor of the Nicaragua Canal, cheap fares and freights and all the people demand. Everything of which complaint is made is supposed to be referred to his wicked partners.

In some respectathis is as good as a play. But the simple question is, can the State stand it? California has long enough been held up as the tail to the (Exchange.) It is not necessary that you should take a broom and sweep out the yard every day, but take up your spade each morning and turn over a little of the earth in the yard so there will be fresh dirt for the fowls to scratch in and pick dirt for the fowls to scratch in and pick out a few bugs and worms. In this way the filth is turned under. Or once in two or three weeks take your spade and remove the top part and throw it in your garden or your wife's flower beds, as it makes a splendid fertilizer. Thus the place will be put in a healthful condition, and by supplying your fowls with plenty of green and animal food they will do nearly as well as if they had an extended range, provided they are not too much crowded.

How to Clean the Poultry Yard.

The Cake Walk and Jubilee Monday Night.

The Affair Well Patronized and Highly Enjoyed.

The Closing Monday Night Hop at El Retiro.

The Results of Monday Night's Rain age No Far as Heard from-Personal Mention.

[Branch office, No. 50 East Colorado street where news, advertisements and orders for THE TIMES are received,]

The great cake walk and jubilee unde the direction of J. Locke Warnich at Will-tams's Hall, on Monday evening, while not calling out so large an audience as was anticipated, was fairly well patronized and the crowd made up in mirth and merriment what it wanted in numbers. Two numbers of the programme were omitted, but the "Nightingale Song," rendered by Miss Annita Leon, whose picturesque costume of "Nightingale Song." rendered by Miss Annita Leon, whose picturesque costume of flowing pink was particularly catchy with the gallery gods, was a gem in its way.

Miss Malinda Curtis, in her specialty, the famous buzzard loop dance, was the spirit and life of the performance and carried off the laurels of the evening. At the conclusion of a varied programme, including a guitar solo and songs and dances, the piecating contest was entered into by a genuine blooded colored youth of Los Angeles and two would be colored youths of Pasadena, made as nearly to resemble the genuine article as burnt cork could make them. One of these latter contestants, however, turned chicken-hearted at the sight of the two enormous cream pies to be genaumed and backed out of the contest, which, however, was boldly entered into by the remaining competitors for honors. With hands pinioned behind their backs these gourmands presented a unique appearance after attacking the delicious delicacy, but Los Angeles showed the greater facility in stowing away the "fruit" and carried off the honors of the occasion.

The entertainment concluded with a cake walk, and Messrs. Mosher, Granger and Parker acted in the capacity of judges with

The entertainment concluded with a cake walk, and Messrs. Mosher, Granger and Parker acted in the capacity of judges with official gravity. A diagram was drawn upon the floor, upon which three couples of elegantly dressed members of the colored "sassity" displayed their acquaintance with the manners and styles of fashionable behavior and carriage. Prizes were judiciously awarded to the three ladies, Mrs. Marnick securing first, Miss Leon second and Miss Curtis third prize. Thereupon the entertainment broke up with a whoop from the gallery, everybody departing through the sloppy and muddy streets in the best of humor, apparently is atisfied with their evening's amusement.

The closing party of this delightful series of fitteen social gatherings was given on Monday evening last and was a most auspicious occasion. Owing to the inclemency of the weather several of the expected guests were unable to be present, but those who were fortunate enough to attend made up in good spirits and merriment any lack which might have been felt as to numbers and that the guests did not take their departure until the chimes were tolling out 3 is surely an evidence of a desire to prolong so far as possible the pleasures of these Monday evenings. There the entertainment is always of the best and hospitality prodigal, an la special effort was made to make this party a brilliant success. The irrigation district held a meeting vesterday for the opening of bids for the ourchase of the bonds of the district. Only purchase of the bonds of the district. Only two bids were received, one from Hugo Zuber of Los Angeles for $5000 at 90% cents, and the other from J. W. Northup of San Francisco for the entire issue at 90 cents, payable one-fourth in sixty days, one-fourth in five, eight and eleven months each. Several propositions were submitted by different members of the board in behalf of other narties who wanted the bonds of other parties who wanted the bonds under certain conditions, and the matter was laid over until the next meeting. It was stated that Mr. Northup had secured the Modesto and Turlock bonds and also expected to get the Kern and Tulare bonds, and that his agent in New York had advised him there was a very good chance to dispose of a large block of irrigation bonds in that city. The board seemed to consider Mr. Northup's proposition more in the nature of an option than a bona fide bid, as no cash was to be paid before the expiration of sixty days, and no guarantee was offered for the taking and payment of the bonds. More will probably be known in regard to offers for the bonds in a short time.

Sunday morning, Monday night and yesterday several smart showers of rain fell, amounting in all to 1.45 inches, bringing the total for the season up to 7.38 inches. All agree that only slight damage has been done to crops of any kind, while the rain will result in great good to corn and latesown grain; the roads have been put in good condition and the foliage of trees and plants has been washed clean. This is the first time on record, it is believed, where such a heavy rain has fallen in May.

the Frear Stone Company before Referee James G. Maguire in San Francisco, affords the public a slight inside view into the methods of conducting legislative business at Scramento. Perine is suing to recover $2300 for stone furnished to the Frear Company who had the contract to supply this material for the Napa Insane Asylum, and he also asks reimbursement for the money expended by him in having the claim pushed through the Legistature after the Asylum Trustees had refused to pay for the material on the ground that the appropriation, had been exceeded the appropriation had been exceeded. Perine asserts that he tried at several perine asserts that he tried at several sessions of the Legislature to get his claim allowed but without avail, until at last, acting upon the advice of friends, he appealed to Christopher A. Buckley and to the late William T. Higgins. Within a fortnight after enlisting the services of these gentlemen, the claim was passed, but the Frear Company received only one-third of the money, the other two-thirds being equally awarded between Buckley and Higgins. Perine's misfortune did not end here, however, for although the money was voted to the Frear Company for his benefit, the company has held on to the one-third that fell into its bands, and Perine has retreather. that fell into its hands, and Perine has got nothing. In support of his suit on Tuesday, Perine called upon Dennis Jordan and J. M. Hutchinson as experts, to prove that it was necessary for him to employ Buckley and Higgins to get his claim allowed, and therefore that he is instill justly entitled to recover from the Frear Stone Company the money he paid for this purpose. Both Jordan and Hutchinson seem to have had considerable experience in pushing claims through the Legislature, and both agreed that unless the so-called bosses were employed no claimant would receive any attention from the members of either house. This in not a new revelation to the people of California, for the evil has been a matter of common fame for a long time, but the subject has rarely ever been so plainly sworn to in court as in this case, and it is there-fore likely to awaken renewed interest in the subject. Higgins is dead and Buckley's power is broken, but there can be little doubt that the evil system they practiced still remains, and will remain until the people elect a Legislature too strong in honesty for the lobby to rule. A good occasion to do this is to rule. A good occasion to do this is offered this fall, and for that reason it will be profitable to meditate at this n the evidence we have just referred to.

Educating the Horse.

[H. Reynolds, M. D., in Massachusetts Ploughman.] The education of our horses, even when it is otherwise unobjectionable, is generally defective in regard to a few things which it is highly important that a horse should be well taught. Every horse should be taught to stop at the word "whoa," and stop instantly, right in his tracks. The word should only be used when it is intended to stop the horse, and not, as oftentimes, when it merely desires to steady him. By a iltitle practice, any horse can be taught to stop at the word "whoa," and it will be well worth the trouble to any horse owner to teach this thing thoroughly. If thoroughly taught, it may be the If thoroughly taught, it may be the means of saving whoever should be the driver from severe injury or even death, perhaps, sometimes, in case of accident. In case of accident, a horse which will stop at once when the word "whoa" is pronounced, is worth more than two or three horses which would start and run under like circumstances. So impor-tant a matter as this should never be neglected in any horse's education. Another important matter for a horse to learn is not to be frightened by the pressure of the carriage from behind in case a hold-back breaks and lets the case a noid-back breaks and lets the carriage upon him in going down hill. Probably seven-eights of the horses in use would be frightened under such cir-cumstances and run, vet they could be easily taught to stop and hold the load even under such circumstances. Every norse should be trained to do inis. In backing the horse into the shafts, let him look back gently until the whiffle-tree presses against his legs. Then, when he has become accustomed to this sensation, let some one take him this sensation, let some one take him by the bits, and you go behink and gently press the wagon against him without any holdbacks hitched to keep the wagon off. Get the horse to resist the pressure, and that is what you want. Soon he will hold the whole weight of the carriage against him, even going down hill. He should learn that the carriage pressing against him from hind him will not push him, and then will not be frightened. After he has learned this, he will not be frightened nor run in case a strapor an iron should break in going down hill, and let the carriage on to him. This bit of educa-tion will save a runaway and a smashup.

Any horse which has, been educated to stop promptly at the. word "whoa," and not to be frightened by the carriage coming upon him from behind, is worth a third more to any one than he would be without his training, yet comparatively few of the horses are taught these things, although it requires only a little time and patience to do it. Let us demand a better education for our horses.

in his own hands and summarily end his life. On Tuesday evening Aurich called on Rev. Dr. Reed, pastor of the First Baptist Church, of which congregation he was a member, and wanted to leave some private papers in the minister's care, at the same time handing over $10 which had been advanced him from the church fund. Dr. Reed refused to take the money, when Aurich threw the coin and papers on a table in the room and rushed out of the house.

He did not return to his lodgings, and, after waiting for several days and nothing being heard of him, the case was reported to the police, the man's friends being convinced that he had carried out his intention of suicide by drowning himself in one of the reservoirs about the city.

Monday evening, however, a letter was received by a clergyman in this city from Aurich, who is now at Catalina, alive and as well as he has ever been.

People's Store!

May 4, 1892.

We have earned some reputation in this community as being progressive and successful merchants. Our branch house, the Maze, in San Francisco, is an evidence of our ability. In ten months we have turned our stock five times. We are doing business there on half the amount of capital invested in Los Angeles and find it the hardest work possible to turn our stock here half as many times in a whole year. "Figures" wont lie," and a good, sound, progressive business policy tells the amount of business we transact should be done on one-half the amount of stock carried by us. We have been aware of this fact for the past two years, but have been endeavoring to increase our business to justify the amount of stock carried, but the volume of trade is not in Southern California, and we have determined from now on to reduce our stock fully one-third in every department, and as heretofore, whenever we have undertaken a business project it is as good as accomplished. You will assist us in this departure, for it is your gain and our loss. We do not intend to herald in flaming notices and large type the overwhelming reduction which we propose to make, but on inquiry at each department you will find the stock reduced to meet your wants.

THE COURTS.

The Trial of the Kaweah Colonists Commenced.

Considerable Evidence for the Prosecution Introduced.

The Squatters on the Lankershim Ranch in Court.

Ah Len, the Chinese Murderer, Sente to ten Years' Imprisonment—Th Burns Divorce Decided in Fa-vor of Defendant,

In the United States District Court yesterday morning the trial of the case against Burnette G. Haskell, James J. lor and William Christie, the trusteen lor and William Christie, the trustees of the Kaweah Coöperative Colony Company, charged with having on March 15, 1890, used the United States mails for the purpose of fraud, was commenced before Judge Ross, the defendants being represented by H. C. Dillon, Esq., and M. T. Allen, Esq., appearing for the Government.

The jurors selected to try the case were: W. F. Ball, E. K. Benchley, H. de Garmo, G. M. D. Fisher, J. Hamilton, M. S. Hewes, J. A. Montgomery, E. F. Mullen, J. B. O'Hara, E. H. Sander-

F. Mullen, J. B. O'Hara, E. H. Sanderson, H. Siegel and H. F. Vollmer.

After the indictment had been read to the jury a recess was taken until 2 o'clock, at which hour the complainant, L. H. Findeisen of Santa Ana, took the witness stand. He testified to the effect that on March 18, 1890, he received a pamphlet entitled "The Commonwealth, a Journal for Those who Labor and who Think," through the mails, in which the purposes of the colony were painted in glowing pen pictures. He also received a letter from the defendant, J. J. Martin, as secretary of the company, offering him inducements to join the colony. These documents were admitted in evidence, over the objections of the defendants' counsel, by the of the defendants' counsel, by the Court.

On cross-examination the defense introduced fifteen letters and ten receipts from Findeisen to Martin, and vice versa, all of which, together with the pamphlet, were read to the jury, and necessarily occupied considerable time. The case then went over until 10:30 o'clock this morning.

Moore, Esq., represented the defendants, G. L. Livingston and E. Sansome; and J. M. Damron, Esq., represented the defendants, W. Alf, E. Antuñes. V. Soldano, J. H. Lee, H. Thompson and Ellen Carr.

The work of selecting a jury occupied the whole of the morning session, the following being finally agreed upon and sworn to try the case: C. S. Boggs, J. H. Drewery, J. G. Eads, S. D. Ellsworth, J. W. Fowler, J. W. Fox, C. H. Hollister, M. Leady, L. C. Masson, J. C. Ragsdale, J. A. Thornton, and Josiah Wright.

The defendants, Bell, Sansome, Moore

The defendants, Bell, Sansome, Moore and Livingstone, by their counsel, demanded separate trials, but the Court denied their motions.

The action was ordered dismissed as to the defendants Z. Reed, H. Gilliland, T. Floyd, H. L. White, J. Woolley and E. M. Duncanson, they having moved away since the commencement of the suit.

except Bell and Dennison for the poss-ession of the land in controversy, and that they be perpetually enjoined from committing any waste thereon. The readings of the pleadings, which were, of course, unusually voluminous, occupied the whole of the afternoon session, and the matter went over until this morning when the taking of testi-mony will be commenced.

AH LEN SENTENCED Ah Len appeared before Judge Shaw yesterday morning with his counsel, and moved the Court to vacate and set aside the verdict rendered against him and grant him a new trial upon the fol-

full consideration, denied the motion, and the defendant being unable to offer any further legal reason why sentence should not be passed upon him, was thereupon sentenced by the Court to imprisonment in the State prison at San Quentin for the period of ten years.

Return of Manager Vanderbeck from the North.

Very Well Satisfied With the Result of His Trip.

'Uncle" Henry Harris Ousted from His Position as Secretary for His Brother Magnates-Pres-ent Status of the "Phe-

President Vanderbeck and William M. Edwards, who accompanied the Angels on their trip North, returned to the over at Bakersfield to play a game and will not arrive home till today.

Mr. Vanderbeck is well satisfied with the result of his trip, although he is somewhat depressed over the loss of four games to the Dukes.

Los Angeles cranks will be glad to learn that "Uncle" Henry Harris has been very properly "ousted" from the office of secretary of the California League, his place being filled by J. J. Mone. Harris's action in refusing to suspend Balsz is only one of numerous exhibitions of a similar kind by the San Francisco magnate, and the other di-rectors decided, at a meeting held in San José on Sunday, that a man with more head and less feet than Mr. Harris owned would be less obstreperous as League secretary.

Mr. Vanderbeck has indisputable evi-Mr. Vanderbeck has indisputable evidence that young Balsz was tampered with by some interested third party after he pitched the second game for Los Angeles. On Saturday Glenalvin sent Balsz an offer by telegraph, and soon after received the following dispatch from the young "phenom:"

Terms accepted; will be down in the morning, (signed,)

Louis Balsz.

He came to San Francisco next morning and pitched the afternoon game.

He came to San Francisco next morning and pitched the afternoon game. In the evening he asked permission to return home for his trunk and Glenalvin allowed him to go. He appeared anxious to play ball and promised to be on hand at San José Tuesday. Monday afternoon, nowever, Glenalvin received a letter from Balsz saying he had a good offer at Vallejo and could not sign unless given $15 a month more than first agreed upon, and added: "I will say that if your manager will agree to these terms I will come down right away if he will telegraph me." As he was anxious to have the youngster for the San José games Glenalvin telegraphed an acceptance of the new offer, but was surprised later on getting the following reply:

"Your terms not accepted; do not ex-

"Your terms not accepted; do not expect me."

Balsz's first dispatch accepting terms is just as binding in baseball law as though his name were attached to a contract, but in spite of all thes evidence Secretary Harris grossly overstepped all rulings and precedents, and sagely declared that "it was only a question of veracity between Manager Glenalvin and Mr. Balsz," and refused to suspend the player.

Glenavin and Mr. Daisz, and recused to suspend the player.

The League directors were surprised, to put it midlly, when they found that the secretary's office was being converted into a personal partisan machine which had no respect for higher authority, and wired Mr. Harris that his resignation would be accepted. The celerity with which it came flashing over the wires was a revelation to those who thought Mr. Harris did not recognize a bombshell when he heard it drop.

The prompt action of the directors

The prompt action of the directors saved that California League a raking over at the hands of the National board. A trickster has no place in baseball management and no minor league can afford to take chances of being dis-can afford to take chances of being discredited by the higher organization.

Balsz is now properly on the suspended list and will play ball for Los Angeles or not at all. Mr. Vanderbeck thinks he will report for duty within a short time, and if his work is on a par with what he did at San Francisco he will aid materially in landing the pennant in Los Angeles.
The schedule dispute is still unsettled, as there is a strong disposition to give Los Angeles the worst of it. For instance, the Angels have more games instance, the Angels have more games with the Dukes than with either of the other clubs, which is clearly unjust. The northern managers will not consent to five games a week in Los Angeles unless the support given the games during the present series demonstrates Mr. Vanderbeck's assertion that this city is one of the best baseball towns in the League.

Goldie, Rappold and Leland leave this morning for Dallas, in the Texas State League, where they will play this sea-son. Goldle is signed for second base, Leland for third and Rappold goes be-hind the bat. Leland is the only young leaguer of the trio, while Goldle's fifteen years on the diamond has only served

HUSBAND VS. WIFE.

Property in Dispute Between an Estranged Couple.

Suit Brought by the Husband to Quiet Title Decided by Judge Van Dyke in Favor of the Wife.

Judge Van Dyke rendered his decion yesterday morning in the case of William Underwood vs. Catherine Underwood, which has been pending for some years past, ordering judgment for the defendant therein, in accordance with the following opinion:

the defendant therein, in accordance with the following opinion:

This is an action to quiet title to five certain parcels of lând in this county.

The parties to this action are husband and wife, but living separate and apart. In a former action commenced by the plaintiff against the defendant for a divorce the verified complaint alleged that the property in question here was community property, whereas in this action the verified complaint by the same plaintiff claims the property to be his separate property. Plaintiff's counsel made the point in their brief that as to the conveyance to the defendant from Wicks the statement in reference to the consideration having been paid from the defendant's separate estate, and the grant to her as her sole and separate property are interlineations, and that such interlineations are not explained, and therefore the deeds cannot be received, but the deeds were admitted in evidence without any objection on the trial; besides the clauses referred to are not proper interlineations, but written additions to the printed form, and one of them in the handwriting of the grantor, and in both cases it is the same as the rest of the writing in the deed and bears evidences of having been written at the same time and before the execution of the deed. It appears, however, that the consideration in question was derived principally from the sale of eighty acres of land in Minnesota in January, 1883, prior to the removal of the parties united in that conveyance, but the title to the property to the removal of the parties to this State, from which $1800 was received and brought to this State. Both parties united in that conveyance, but the title to the property sold also stood in the name of the defendant by a deed executed by the plaintif, William Underwood, April, 1877; that was a warranty deed and conveyed the fee simple title to the defendant. The plaintiff in his testimony claims that the conveyance was made because he contemplated going West at that time and he transferred the eighty acree of land to his wife for safe keeping; but the defendant testifies that the land belonged to her from the time it was first purchased, and that the deed should have been made to her at that time, but was made been made to her at that time, but was made to the husband. The husband, the plaintiff, is bound by the recitals in the deeds he voluntarily executed to the defendant, (C. C. 188-1105-1107.) Elumke vs. Baker (60 Cal. 558.) Swan vs. Duane (48 Cal. 558.) (G. P. 1962.) In the absence of any proof to the contrary it is presumed that the law of Minnesota is the same as our law on this subject. Marsters vs. Lash (61 Cal. 622.), and cases there cited.

The presumption arising from the recitals in the deeds conveying the title to the defendant has not been overcome by the testimony in this case. The only evidence bearing on the points outside of the the defendant nas not been overcome by the testimony in this case. The only evi-dence bearing on the points outside of the documentary evidence was the testimony of the plaintiff and defendant, which is in direct conflict in reference to the material points involved. The burden of proof be-ing on the plaintiff he has failed to make out his case, and judgment must go for the defendant.

There are eight rooms on the second floor, which are reached by a shaky stairway from the outside at the rear part of the house. The rooms were occupied by eight or ten Italian and Russian laborers who retired early in the evening and knew nothing about the explosion until Officer Goodman awakened them at 8 o'clock yesterday morning. That the explosion was quite loud there is no doubt, for a number of neighbors and people who had not yet gone to bed heard it distinctly, and one officer heard it as far as First street, but he thought was below Alameda

Officer Goodman was about three blocks from the house at the time and heard it distinctly, but he thought it was a boiler in one of the mills in that vicinity. He at once notified the clerk at the central police station that an ex-plosion of some kind had taken place, plosion of some kind had taken photos but that he could not tell in which di-

He began a search, but did not find the wrecked building until a few min utes past 3 o'clock yesterday morning. He made a thorough investigation of the house, and aroused the inmates, but no one knew anything about the ex-

The house sets about ten feet back a narrow two-story frame building. There is a narrow porch in front of a small room, which is used as a sitting and drinking room. It contained no furniture except a long, rough table and a few common chairs. There is a door leading to the room from the porch, and two windows on either side. The bomb-thrower evidently climbed to the porch and either broke a pane of glass or raised the sash so that he could drop his cartridge on the floor. This window was smashed and the casings were badly wrecked. A small hole through the floor immediately under the bomb was found. No other damage was done, which goes to show that the man did not inclose his dynamite or

The Randesi family were interviewed by a Times reporter. They declare that they have no enemies unless it be some of their countrymen who are jealous of their success. A BROADWAY MYSTERY.

Mysterions Annorance to Which Capt. As-derson is Subjected.

Capt. A. B. Anderson lives in a neat little cottage on Broadway, between Eighth and Ninth streets, and so far as he knows he has not a single enemy in the city, but that some one, either human or spiritual, is after his scalp. The old spook rock-throwing business took possession of his quiet home some days ago, and almost nightly since he and his family have been annoyed al-most to death by showers of rock and heavy chunks of stove-wood. The house is some distance from any the house is some distance from any other house as there is a vacant lot on one side and a house some distance away on the other. The police were called in as soon as the captain became convinced that he could not solve the mystery himself and Officer Harris was detailed to look the matter up.

The presence of a squad of blue coats in the yard had no effect whatever on the shower of rocks and pieces of wood. They came down just the same. In fact, they came so fast and furious that the officers had to retreat.

the officers had to retreat.

They scoured the whole neighborhood but failed to find the person or persons who were firing the rocks and pieces of stove wood. It is not believed that a man lives who could throw some of the heavy pieces of wood over twenty steps and yet they seem to fall on the house and in the yard with the greatest ease.
The police are completely puzzled lover the affair, but are of the opinion that the rocks and pieces of wood are thrown by boys who have rigged up an immense cross-bow in the neighborhood.

FLIES, SNAKES AND WHISKY

Very Much Mixed in Some Mines at Bangor.

That Have Produced Some Very Queer Looking Insects and Reptlies.

The Russell brothers. W. W. Ward, J. H. Pender and several others of Marys-ville, are interested in the Blue Lead mines at Bangor, just over the Yuba county line, and for the edification of themselves and friends the following story is here reproduced, says the Ap resumption of mining operations along the famous "Blue lead" in this section a most peculiar discovery was made. Among the mines now being worked is the old Potter mine, owned by Mrs. Ben Bishop, and rechristened the Bishop

When the Bishop mine was first re opened one of the Will boys entered a dry slope leading to a second shaft, whose existence was unknown, owing whose existence was unknown, owing to a thick growth of brush and trees about it, and had nearly reached the shaft when he noticed a large number of flies buzzing about him in a very troublesome manner. He made several slaps at them and accidentally caught

On examining it by the aid of his lantern he was nearly startled into letting it go by the uncanny appearance of the insect. It was absolutely white, with the exception of its eyes, which, having the usual red color, seemed unusually large and prominent.

The red-eyed white fly, while not being common, is not unknown in the older mines, particularly the deep coal mines of the East; but this is the first time, so far as known, that they have been found in any California mine where access to light and the open air are too easily obtainable for flies to remain below long enough to fade out. Scarcely had Mr. Will recovered from Scarcely had Mr. Will recovered from his surprise at the white flies when he was startled again, this time by the whirring sound of a rattlesnake's musical apparatus. Looking carefully around he saw the eyes of the reptile and threw a rock at them. The rattling promptly ceased and a mass of white, glistening convulsions writhed into view from behind a protruding boulder. A couple more rocks despatched the creature, which proved to be a rattler over four feet long. One to be a rattler over four feet long. One of the rocks thrown had knocked off a good part of his snakeship's rattles, so his age was not to be discovered, but he must have been an old fellow. The

At the Catskill mine, another of those newly reopened, the other morning one of the workmen found a cavity in the wall filled with a stone. Looking in he saw a faint glitter, and investigation resulted in the unearthing of a large dusky bottle, filled with liquor, which turned out to be whisky.

'Experts sampled it and declared it the finest they had ever tasted. With due appreciation for the excellence of a liquor which was quite evidently thirty years old, the experts reserved half the contents of the bottle (about a pint) for a future seance.

WHAT IS THE SKY?

AN ARTICLE OF REMARKABLE POWER AND INTEREST.

By Camille Flammarlon

COPYRIGHT 1892, CONTRIBUTED TO THE TIMES, J Our vision, limited to the sphere in which we dwell, shows us above our heads a blue pavilion, enriched in dark-ness by a multitude of brilliant points. We are inclined to believe that this is an arched vault, made of some airy substance and inclosing the terrestrial surface like the cupola of a vast cage. Such is a sketch of the system of appearances. It is thus that we picture it to ourselves when, in the first years of childhood, we reason after the im-pression of our senses. This is the cture which the infant nations had lopted—for humanity is like an indiadopted—for humanity is like an individual person, who grows by degrees out of infant weakness into the use of analyzing judgment. This is the picture which a great number of men retain even yet, because they remain indifferent to the progress of science. Let us recollect the ancient attempts of human thought, from the Aryans, who carried their tents from river to river on the plains of vast India; from the Egyptians, whose severe and silent sphinxes pensively regarded the distant horizon of the great deserts; the Chaldean shepherds watching at night on the mountains; down to the cosmogony of the Greeks, to the indistinct ideas of the Romans and even to the outlandish fears of our own dark middle ages. In this immense retrospective panorama ish fears of our own dark middle ages. In this immense retrospective panorama of humanity we see prevailing ideas based upon appearances. Astronomical systems differ, it is true, in their form, according to the method of reasoning employed, according to the latitude of the country, according to the latitude of the country, according to the imperament of the people, according to their religious beliefs and occording to the governing or reigning dynasty. But we distinguish without difficulty the frame-type of all these systems; it is the type which we have sketched. The earth is a plain surface of undefined outline, surrounded by its unknown limits, by gulfs of darkness, by the chaos of cosmic material. The sky is a dome, above which religious have generally placed the abode of recompense dome, above which religious have generally placed the abode of recompense after death, as they have placed the abode of punishment below the depths of the earth—in inferis.

It is thus that after his chapter entitled "Which is the Right Side of the World, and which is the Left?" Plutarch the great and complex historian.

tled "Which is the Right Side of the World, and which is the Left?" Plutarch, the great and complex historian of antiquity, asks, "What is the substance of the sky?" Anaximenes replies to him that the outermost circumference of the sky is of a terrestrial substance, and that the stars are attached to it like nails. Parmenides says that the world is formed of several layers of material applied one upon another, and that the substance which incloses them is as solid as a wall. This solid wall of the sky was taught by all the ancients (I would have been quite curious to go far enough to touch it in my balloon voyages, but as yet I have not had this happiness.) Empedocles believed that the sky is solid, that it is formed of air vitrified by fire and resembling crystal, and that it contains in each of its hemispheres an ærial and igneous substance. This theory is less rude. Aristotlesays that it is composed of the fifth layer; the chief thing would be? And out of what this fifth layer consists. But his colleagues made answer that it is composed of a mingling of cold and hot. Diogenes pierced the sky with breathing holes, and said that the stars were these breathing holes, which had been rubbed, it appears, with pumice stone Xenophanes gave still less importance to the hosts of heaven, since he believed that the stars are made of finding clouds which go out every day and which are relit at heaven, since he believed that the stars are made of flaming clouds which go out every day and which are relit at night like coals.

The earth was considered to be fixed and immovable at the bottom of the uni-and immovable at the bottom of the universe, longer from east to west than from north to south by a full third; whence have arisen the expressions longitude and latitude. Each nation, moreover, had naturally the small vanity of believing itself to be the center of the inhabited universe. They naturally felt assured that this earth was solid, that there was no danger of its breaking in, and that they could walk in safety on its platform. As to its limits, some said that oceans of marshes marked it out; others spoke of darkness marked it out; others spoke of darkness mingled with movement and repose. Others, bolder men of the monks of the early centuries of our era, declared that while making a journey in search of the terrestrial paradise, they had found the point where the sky and the earth met, and had been obliged to stoop their shoulders.

And yet certain questions had em-barrassed inquirers. The dazzling source of the light of day, the moon and the stars, rise at a point opposite their set-ting. It must be, then, that those bodies pass under the earth. But it was believed that the latter extended indefi-nitely below the surface. Such a pas-sage, then, was difficult to imagine, and the more so that the stars neither rise or set two days in succession at the same coint. Some continued to believe, according to the tradition of Homer, that Apollo and his coursers plunged at night into the ocean, and in the nocturnal coolness of the waters repaired the exhaustion of the day, after which they returned to the Orient by routes unknown to mortals. An Egyptian traveler, Cosmas, drew, in the sixteenth century, a curious sketch of the world, century, a curious sketch of the work, in which the earth was square, surrounded by four walls, topped by the celestial dome. Last of all came Baron Foeneste, who declares that if we do not see the sun when he comes back "it is because he comes back in the night."

Asked look of it work clearly we see the sun when he comes that it is because he comes back in the night."

As we look at it more closely, we see the gravity of the subject degenerating into frivolity. But it is time to pass from appearances to reality, from the frivolous to the serious, from error to truth, Let us hasten to remark that the delusions propagated by the theorist whom we have quoted should not be ascribed to them personally, but rather to the time in which they lived, and when the truthful methods of experimental science were as yet unknown.

To form a just idea of the sky, we must first form a concise one of the

when the truthful methods of experimental science were as yet unknown.

To form a just idea of the sky, we must first form a concise one of the terrestrial globe, and picture to ourselves that globe as suspended in space without any sort of support, absolutely as would be a soap bubble in the air. It is even more isolated than the soap bubble, because the latter really rests upon layers of air heavier than itself, while the earth rests upon no fluid, upon no layer, and remains independent of any sort of point of support or of suspension.

But then, you say, if it is cast out thus like a bullet into space, why does in diamater. You, of medium size, measure five or six feet. Your body, retatively to that of the terrestrial globe, is less than would be that of an ant walking about a ball of the size of the Pantheon. Now, suppose that you walk about this globe, in all directions as an ant would wair around an immense ball. This globe is a loadstone, and it is its attraction which fastens you incincibly upon its surface.

Whatever be the part of the globe on which you are walking, you will always call down the surface which you have under your feet, and up. the space above your head. You may place your-self in succession on every point of the globe without exception; all these points will in turn be down for you, and the corresponding point of space above your head will likewise be always up. These terms, mark them, are only a matter of position in relation to your-self, and not an absolute reality. The observers sitting at the extremities of the same diameter, will have the upward direction reciprocally opposite to each other; two others, placed at the observers sitting at the extremities of the same diameter, will have the upward direction reciprocally opposite to each other; two others, placed at the extremities of a second diameter crossing the first one at a right angle, will have the upward direction, in two points perpendicular to the first. And so on. If the globe were covered with observers, each one looking in an upward direction above his own head, it would ensue that the entire surrounding space must be upward, for the entire population of the globe.

This is in reality our situation on the globe. At whatever point we live, we have for the sky the space situated above our heads. The earth, moreover, revolves upon its own axis once in twenty-four hours. At the hour when you are reading these lines you will consider as upward the space which you look at as you raise, your head. Six hours later, in the same manner, you will give the same name to the space which will then be situated above your head, and which at this present extends below your feet. And thus, in succession, whatever be your position upon the globe. The sky, then, is all space, which surrounds us in every direction, and through which the terrestrial planet files with the magnificent speed of 660,000 leagues a day.

There is, then, neither top nor bottom in the universe; consequently, neither right nor left, nor any absolute position. The earth is a sphere isolated in space, and this space extends to infinity in all directions all about it. Try to fathom the exact meaning of this word! Let us suppose that, wishing to measure this infinity, you leave the earth as a point of departure and travel toward any given point of the sky, then whatever be the point in space toward which you are moving, in a straight line and without ever interrupting your course—even should you make your way line and without ever interrupting your course—even should you make your way through this space with the rapidity of light (77 leagues a second.) or more rapidly still, if you dare to think of it—you could, listen! you could fly for years together with this prodigious quickness, during centuries and centuries, and you would never, never, reach a limit to this immensity!

As abysses close behind you other abysses would open before, perpetually, without end or cessation, whatever might be the number of accumulated centuries in your journey; ceaseless im-without end or cessation, whatever might be the number of accumulated centuries in your journey; ceaseless immensity would dawn before you, and you might sooner exhaust the series of possible ages, you might absorb time, you might identify yourself with eternity, before you, mocking at your ardent pursuit. In reality, your long and incommensurable journey would have identically the same result as if you had remained in complete repose. Before infinity you would not have made a single step of advance.

If theu, for an instant considering the terrestrial globe as unique in this infinity which surrounds it on all sides, you should suppose that it might fall through like a ball in an abyss; this globe might fall and fall, and would continue to fall incessantly, without ever in the whole duration of eternity reaching the bottom of the abyss. After falling a thousand centuries, it would continue to fall another thousand centuries, and for a thousand times a would continue to fall another thousand centuries, and for a thousand times a thousand centuries, without ever approaching a stopping place. It would be absolutely as if it had remained at rest, for, in reality, the path which it would have traveled would not even be as zero compared with infinity.

We understand, then, that the sky is nothing but empty, infinite space, which reaches out in all directions and around the globe; that the seven heavens of crystal, in each of which a planet was supposed to have revolved, have no would continue to fall another thousand was supposed to have revolved, have no existence but in the imagination of men, that the ninth heaven itself be-longs to the same catagory, that the firmanent with its glittering sparks has disappeared like a dream; and that nothing remains after all these con-structions and the seventy-two over-lapping circles drawn in the time of Alfonso X, but a space, empty and infinite. Around the terrestrial globe floats a light down, such as is seen on the cheeks of a youth, or on the tender peach which no rough hand as yet has brushed. It is the azure atmosphere with which the earth is surrounded; the with which the earth is surrounded; the clouds are rocked in its bosom at a moderate height; the concave form which we notice in this apparent dome is only the result of perspective. We live, little microscopic beings, more given to reasoning than reasonable, at the bottom of this ærial ocean, and the blue of the sky is nothing more than this atmosphere itself whose particles in all directions reflect the blue rays of the spectrum of light. On rising toward the upward part of the atmosphere, on mountain tops or in balloons, we lose this calestial tint and recognize that space is colorless. A sojourn of a few moments on the surface of the moon would convince us still more clearly that the color of the celestial sky is an

system of worlds of which the sun is the center. Picture to yourself a cannon ball falling in space. At different distances about this ball, four grains of lead—Mercury, Venus, the Earth and Mars; at a greater distance, four balls.—Jupiter, Saturn, Uranus and Neptune. These grains and these balls revolve about the bullet. Such, in fine, is the planetary system, only the four grains of lead are as large as the earth, or a little less, the balls are from 100 to 1400 times larger, and the bullet is 1,500,000 times more voluminous than this earth.

But then, you say, if it is cast out thus like a bullet into space, why does it not fall!

And whither should it fall! I reply. But what is the meaning of that word downward! It is a purely relative idea. If you remember that the terrestrial globe is suspended in isolation in infinite space, it will not take you long to realize that there is heither top nor bottom in the universe. Examine it for yourself. Here is this globe in space. It measures, as you know, 3000 leagues

1,500,000 times more voluminous than this earth.

This system is held in equilibrium in sea. What supports it? The invisible skien of universal attraction. Is it at rest! No. It gravitates, or, which is through the infinite abyss. The solar system is falling with the rapidity estimated at two leagues per second, more than 7000 leagues an hour, more than 1,000,000 leagues an week, and 60,000,000 leagues a year. Whether the line followed in this course be curved, winding or straight, we have already seen that we shall be able to fall throughout eternity without fear of dashing against the confines of infinity.

I would like to lead you away into the splendors of immensity; to show you that this infinite expanse is peopled in all directions by billions of worlds, separated from each other by predigons distances; show you their proper movement, and the universal action of the great principle of Newton; show you how the stars are weighed and by what method their distances are determined; give you an idea of these distances, by proving that the star which is nearest us, the one which we call our neighbor, dwells at a distance of eight trillions, six hundred and three billions, two hundred millions of leagues from here—a distance which light will, require three years and eight months to cross—but we shall have already attained our aim if we understand clearly that the material sky of the ancients does not exist, that there are no other heavens than the limitless space in which ride the inhabited spheres, and that the earth is in the sky like the other stars, and holds its place among them by the same title as the stars of the Southern Cross.

How to Keep Eggs.

An egg that is not fertilized will keep three times as long as others. Try it and see. We know of several farmers who keep one or two yards of hens for this purpose, and the plan works well. Eggs are perishable merchandise, and many thousands of dollars's worth are lost annually. The manner of preserving eggs is varied, but we find nothing better than clean salt in which to pack them. In May and June the bulk of the eggs packed for winter use is put up in proper shape and stored in a dry, cool place to use when wanted. It pays to to do so, buying as many as you can at 10 cents per dozen and holding them until you can double your money.

Spraying Apple Trees.

The editor of the Farm and Fireside of Springfield, O., says one of the most striking and valuable object lessons ever made to illustrate the benefits of striking and valuable object lessons ever made to illustrate the benefits of spraying fruit was prepared by the Ohio Experiment Station. For a long time orchardists despaired of getting a remedy for the apple scab, but it has been found at last. Spraying with the proper mixtures at the right time will completely destroy the fungus and give smooth and perfect apples. Prof. Green used in his spraying experiments the well-known Bordeaux mixture, and the cost for effective work was 14 cents per tree for four sprayings. One spraying of Bordeaux plain, two with paris green added for the codlin moth and the last pure Bordeaux. The mixture was composed of four pounds of sulphate of copper, four pounds of quick-lime and fifty gallons of water. For second and third sprayings four ounces of paris green were added. The cost of fifty gallons of this mixture, used on an orchard of thirty acres. producing 1000 hyshels of application.

mixture, used on an orchard of thirty acres, producing 1000 bushels of ap-ples, was a mere trifle compared to the great benefits derived from its use. Good fruit can only be secured by close attention to insect pests now so numer-After suffering for years with stomach trouble I was at last induced to try Dr. Wong Him, of No. 639 Upper Main street, Los Angeles. He examined me and pronounced my Irouble tumor in the stomach. After two months' treatment, during which time I elt greatly relieved and benefited, he pronounced me entirely cured, and from that time to the present, which is four months, I have not felt the least return of my old trouble. I am able to eat many things which formerly would distress me very much. Therefore I feel that can do mother than the month of the control of the control

Civilisation and the Indian.

"The glare and heat of civilization have killed more Indians than have the bullets of the pioneers." said George H. Williamson of Indian Territory at the Laclede. "The Indian's blood from a long line of ancestry is tainted with scrofula, and the ease and comforts of the white man's life vitalize this scrofulous tendency. To make plain what I mean I will tell you what I observed at the Government school at Lawrence, Kan, a few years ago. The Government heated the quarters of the pupils by steam, and in a little while the Indians began to die off like sheep from consumption until the steam pipes were removed. The Indian needs a hardy, rough life on the plains. Under such removed. The indian needs a narray, rough life on the plains. Under such conditions he thrives and is healthy, but just as soon as you confine him to the limits of a warm room pulmonary tuberculosis seizes him and carries him tuberculosis seizes him and carries him off. Heat and ease set the scrofula in on. Heat and ease set the scrotula in his blood to work with disastrous effects. That's the reason why the American Indian will soon be a reminiscence— his constitution can't stand the civiliza-tion of the pale face."
